

Beer Festival Gig

Contributed by Alistair Gee

Friday, 25 August 2006

Last Updated Sunday, 18 November 2007

Over August Bank Holiday 2006 we played at a beer festival at the Dog and Duck in Kingsfold. This gig was accidental and we were not sure until the week before if it was still on or what any of the arrangements (not the musical type) were.

Luckily everything fell into place and the event went surprisingly smoothly, especially since we were given a free beer quota of 24 pints between the four of us. We spent the night under canvas and the day finished with us all sat round a camp fire in the extensive grounds in which the Pub sits.